- East Stirlingshire played regional football until 1900 when the club was elected into the Scottish Football League, taking the place of Linthouse. They have competed in Scotland's top-tier on two occasions in 1932-33 and 1963-64. With reference to the second pocket watch, in 1922-23, the club finished second-bottom in Division Two and was relegated to the newly created, but short lived, Division Three, earning promotion back to Division Two after only one season. It was during this season the East Stirlingshire recorded its longest unbeaten home record with 23 games without a loss. Had they not achieved promotion they would almost certainly have lost their place in the Scottish Football league when this level was abandoned in 1925. The club has suffered financially in the past decade and has regularly finished bottom of the Scottish Football League during this period. East Stirlingshire now play in the Scottish Lowland League*

'A rather eccentric tea-merchant by day, Fred McKee was famed for his Saville Row suit and the cigarette holder that invariably projected from the side of his mouth. He also took these flamboyant characteristics onto the football field, where he earned the nickname 'Lizzie', his tall, pencil-thin frame clad in long black stockings and topped with a red-white-and-blue hooped jersey!'. McKee transferred to Linfield during the 1914 close-season and went on to claim three Irish Cups during the years of the Great War.
