'The Great Cricket Match, between the Duke of Richmond and Mr. Chambers, 11 Men on each Side, for 200 Guineas, was begun to be play'd on Monday at two in the Afternoon, on Richmond Green. Thus it proved a drawn Battle. There were many Thousands of Spectators, of whom a great Number were Persons of Distinction of both Sexes. - 54 W.G. Grace. Single page handwritten letter in ink from Grace to J.C. Robertson, dated 10th September 1899, on London County Cricket Club, Crystal Palace, headed notepaper. The interesting content relates to the interpretation of the Laws of Cricket. Grace writes, 'Your argument re [the] umpire giving the striker out is wrong. The fact of the ball passing through the wicket does not make it dead. Supposing what you say should happen, if no one appealed for the run out, the striker would be out for the catch'. Nicely signed 'W.G. Grace'. On the third page of the letter is a clarification of the scenario handwritten in ink by Robertson, dated 11th September 1899, 'The point submitted to Dr. G. for opinion was this: The striker returned a hot catch to the bowler; the ball passed through his hands, which diverted it to the non-striker's wicket, knocking the bails off, and, without touching the ground, lodged in a fielder's hands as a catch. The non-striker being out of his ground when the ball broke his wicket, I argued that the non-striker was ipso facto out, and the ball dead; and that consequently the umpire was wrong'. Also included is an original press cutting from the June 1982 issue of 'The Cricketer', submitted by the commentator, Max Robertson, grandson of J.C. Robertson, in which the contents of the letter are discussed, and Grace's verdict deemed correct. Previously sold as lot 211 by Phillips in April 1995. LORD MARTIN HAWKE.
YORKSHIRE & ENGLAND
1881-1911

- 246 Lord Martin Bladen Hawke, Yorkshire & England 1881-1911. Large and imposing sepia portrait photogravure of Lord Hawke, half length, wearing cricket attire, Yorkshire cap and blazer and holding a cricket bat to side, from the original portrait painting by Shirley Slocombe painted in 1903, in the possession of the Hawke family. Engraved by Franz Hanfstaengl of Munich and published by John. B. Sampson of York on the 31st May 1905. One of one hundred and fifty proofs signed by Slocombe, with 'Print Sellers Association Blindstamp' to corner. The wording 'Published by John Sampson, York. Copyright. Gravure. Hanfstaengl, Munich' to top right hand corner. The portrait attractively mounted, measures 17.75"x22", and framed in oak frame, overall 33.75"x40.5". A truly wonderful striking image of Hawke, the father of Yorkshire cricket and a leading force throughout the golden age of cricket. A very rare image £1500/2500

The Print Sellers Association Blindstamp states the following information

'Hawke. Lord. Portrait of. Capt of the Yorks C.C.C .Team. Engr by Franz Haefstangle [sic] after Shirley Slocombe, pub J. B. Sampson May 31 1905. 150 signed proofs and 250 India paper proofs. The former were £3 guineas and the latter £1 guineas each'. Not previously ever seen by this auctioneer either through his sales or for sale elsewhere through auction, collector or dealer. Having checked with a couple of cricket art experts they report that they cannot recall ever seeing a similar example and suggest that few were ever sold on the open market, either signed or unsigned.

A collection of correspondence between Hawke and Slocombe regarding the portrait and later photogravure (see the following lot, lot 247) was sold almost twenty years ago by Christopher Saunders who at the time stated in his description 'A print of the portrait was advertised in the 'Art Year' of 1906. It was a photogravure, with 250 copies at one guinea and 150 proof copies at three guineas. I have not come across this print, and would be most interested to know if it was ever produced'.... further evidence giving a clear indication that the photogravure is a truly rarely seen item

Shirley Charles Lewelyn Slocombe, was born at Islington in 1872. Slocombe studied at the Highbury Institute & School of Art and at the Royal Academy Schools from 1892 until 1897 and where he won the Landseer Scholarship in 1894. He exhibited at the Institute of Painters in Oil Colour and the Paris Salon and was elected an Associate Member of the Royal College of Art in 1901. He died at Kensington, London in 1935, aged 63. Slocombe attended Hawke's wedding to Marjory Nelson Ritchie Edwards in 1916 and was also commissioned to paint a similar portrait of Lady Hawke, Maud his wife, in 1917.

Martin Bladen Hawke, 7th Baron Hawke, generally known as Lord Hawke, was an English amateur cricketer from 1881 to 1911 who played for Yorkshire and England. He appeared in 633 first class matches, including five Test matches, scoring 16,749 runs with a highest score of 166 and held 209 catches. He scored

13 centuries and 69 half-centuries. He captained Yorkshire between 1888-1910, through a glorious period in Yorkshire cricket, they were County Champions eight times in that period, coming runners up in four seasons

As a captain, Hawke was noted for taking a strong paternalistic interest in the welfare of his professional players. Certain aspects of this policy caused resentment but he was on the whole respected for it. Even so, he was strict on discipline and expelled the England bowler Bobby Peel from first-class cricket after he went out to play in a drunken state. During his playing career, Hawke became an influential figure in cricket administration. He was elected Yorkshire club president in 1898, while still captaining the team, and held the post until his death. He had a missionary-like zeal to develop cricket overseas and undertook nine tours as a player between 1887-88 and 1911-12, leading teams to Australia, India (twice), North America (twice), South Africa (twice), the West Indies and Argentina. All five of Hawke's Test appearances were made in South Africa. He captained the England team four times and was always on the winning side. After he retired from playing, Hawke became a major figure at MCC as well as at Yorkshire. He was appointed President of MCC for 1914 and retained the post, which is normally an annual appointment, through the First World War. He was appointed Honorary Treasurer of MCC from 1932 to 1937.

247 Lord Martin Bladen Hawke, Yorkshire & England 1881-1911. An important and comprehensive archive of correspondence consisting of thirty six letters, spanning the period February 1903 to May 1917, the majority handwritten by Lord Hawke, who was Captain of Yorkshire for many years, to artist Shirley Slocombe, a man, who was commissioned in 1903 to paint Hawke's portrait. The various letters are handwritten by Hawke in ink and all boldly signed 'Hawke'. The majority are on Wighill Park, Tadcaster' headed paper, some are from his London address in Jermyn Street, some from his club

'the Sports Club, St James Square and odd ones from various hotels and county cricket grounds around the country. The letters mention cricket and the portrait throughout, as well as talking of problems of fitting sittings for the portrait around cricket matches, Hawke complains 'Have got bruised hands and my whole team are crocks- dead out of luck. Off to Bradford today' [1903], 'Playing at Lord's June 4th' [1903], 'To see bioscope [early generic name for a movie camera] of Yorkshire XI at practice!' [1903], 'Personally I am only having a poor cricket season but team is doing well. Lancs will be too good for us on Bank Holiday' [July 1904], 'Am 45 today-very old! So glad we are on top of Australians [5th Test at the Oval] and if we can only be on top of Lancashire I shall be more pleased' [August 1905], 'I am getting another Testimonial, already £1200, goodness knows how I shall spend it!' [December 1907], 'Yesterday the committee gave me a beautiful Coalport Dessert Service- Always Spoilt!' [undated] etc. He also discusses concerts and the singer 'Kitty' [?], problems with lumbago, holidays and trips to North & South America, India etc. With regard to the portrait and photogravure Hawke suggests choosing a title for the portrait 'Why not 'President & Captain- Yorkshire County Cricket Club' [1903], 'his mothers observations 'I don't think she could have seen it in a good light. I was there Tuesday and had it leant forward and it made all the difference in the world. She says you have got an expression I am not often see in- and on the whole it is good' [1903], 'Picture is to be presented on April 30th - any chance of you being in Yorkshire- if so come to the Dinner, Queens Hotel, Leeds. Jackson [F.S.] and I are entertaining the Committee on this occasion [1904], 'Have you the bat I bought to put handle in the picture-It belongs to Bishton[?] here, I don't remember it being returned to Wighill with flannels', 'Should like my old friend Alcock [C.W.] to see my picture' [March 1904], 'Re my picture and engraving, Mr R[ussell] says he does'nt want to make money out of it and I am sure I don't- would it not be best for you, yourself to come to terms with Sampson of York, or some Leeds firm?. Mr R says Sampson would gladly take it on' [August 1904], 'I was in Sampsons for a few this last week. He tells me he is going to engrave the picture and that he has taken out the copyright on whatever it may be called in W. Russell's name' [September 1904], circa 1917, Hawke mentions 'present of a crayon portrait of my fiancée, I should love it and of course will encourage sittings' [undated], 'My fiancée is very pleased with your picture of her' [April 16?] etc. Hawke vowed never to marry while his mother was alive, he married Maud when he was 56 years of age. There is also a letter handwritten by Hawke's fiancée and eventual wife, Maud, Lady Hawke. 'I could come to you for the picture [May 21st], a letter from 'Fitzwilliam' of Rotherham, dated 28th February 1914 to Slocombe and two letters handwritten by Shirley Slocombe, one to Hawke [August 11th 1904] and one to Mr Watt [August 18th 1904] regarding a commission for a portrait, Hawke having recommended Slocombe to him. In the Hawke letter she talks of 'Will seriously consider the matter of engraving your portrait- whatever is done you shall know!'. A wonderful collection of letters from Hawke giving excellent provenance related to the original portrait (1903), the photogravure (1905) and his wife's portrait in 1917. The collection of letters were previously sold nearly twenty years ago by Christopher Saunders, who at the time stated in his description of the portrait 'A print of the portrait was advertised in the 'Art Year' of 1906. It was a photogravure, with 250 copies at one guinea and 150 proof copies at three guineas. I have not come across this print, and would be most interested to know if it was ever produced'.... further evidence giving a clear indication that the photogravure is a rarely seen item. Good condition though out £2000/3000

- 358 Arthur William Carr. Nottinghamshire & England 1910-1934. Typewritten letter to Carr from A.J. Allcock, Hon. Secretary of the Benefit Sub-Committee, members and one player of the club giving support to Carr as Captain of the club. The letter with typed heading 'Trent Bridge Cricket Ground, Nottingham' and dated August 1933. The letter states 'Dear Mr Carr, We, the undersigned, members of the Nottinghamshire County Cricket Club, are of the opinion that we are expressing the view not only of the members of the club, but the cricketing public in general in thanking you most warmly for the splendid loyalty you have shown to the club, the wonderful way in which you have captained the county eleven, with only one rest of three days, during what must have been one of the most trying seasons ever known. We consider that your example on the field has been an inspiration to the side and could not have been equalled by any other county captain. We hope you will remain the county's captain for several years longer, and can assure you of our entire support and warmest gratitude'. The letter is signed by eight members and there are a further four pages of signatures of supporters attached to the letter including the signature of George Gunn. Good condition. From the Arthur Carr Collection £50/80

In 1930 and the following years, Carr was instrumental in developing the Bodyline bowling tactic together with future England captain Douglas Jardine and the two Nottinghamshire fast bowlers Harold Larwood and Bill Voce. Carr used this tactic of instructing his bowlers to aim at the bodies of batsmen and placing a close set field on the leg side to take catches fended away from the body with the bat and perfected it as he led Nottinghamshire to success in the county competition. Jardine then used Larwood and Voce in similar fashion on the 1932-33 English tour of Australia, the tactic resulting in injuries to Australian batsmen and raising the ire of the Australian public. After this tour and the subsequent fallout, Carr was subjected to Bodyline bowling by other English county teams, and was severely shaken by several balls that nearly hit him on the head. He denounced the tactic he had helped develop as unfair. Dissension within the Nottinghamshire club over his role in Bodyline led him being sacked as captain after the 1934 season, and he never played first-class cricket again

The Australian Services XI was a cricket team comprising solely military service personnel during World War II. They became active in May 1945 after the defeat of Germany. The team played matches against English cricket sides of both military and civilian origins to celebrate the end of the war. These matches were aimed at increasing morale in the war-ravaged English cities and as a means of reviving cricket after the conclusion of fighting. The end of the war marked the start of the 1945 cricket season. Plum Warner organised a series of matches between England and Australian servicemen, known as the Victory Tests, to celebrate the end of hostilities. However, Australian cricket administrators would not accredit the three-day matches as official Test matches, arguing that there were not enough Test-level players in the armed services; Lindsay Hassett was the only Australian who had Test experience

Later he worked for the Daily Graphic and his work for this was collected together for The Whisker's Annual. From 1944, the Daily Sketch published Price's political cartoons, who signed them Kim

Going in to the fifth and final Test the series was level at 0-0, the first four matches all having being drawn. With England having scored 280 and Australia 302 in their first innings, England appeared to be in some difficulty batting on a sticky wicket after heavy rain. However, Hobbs and Sutcliffe put on an opening partnership of 172 before Hobbs was out for exactly 100, Sutcliffe going on to make 161, and England ended their second innings at 436 leaving Australia needing 414 to clinch the series. However, four wickets from Wilfred Rhodes and three from Harold Larwood led England to dismiss Australia for 125 and victory by 289 runs to regain The Ashes
