554 Australia tour of England 1926. Fifth Test, The Oval. An excellent selection of thirty five original mono and sepia press photographs from the final Test played at The Oval, 14th-18th August 1926. Images from England's first innings include Hendren bowled Gregory for 8, Maurice Tate being bowled out by Grimmett, Sutcliffe being hit in the face off the bowling of Mailey, Geary being run out for 9, and Rhodes caught by Oldfield off Mailey to close England's innings at 280. Australia's first innings includes Ponsford run out for 2 by England wicketkeeper, Strudwick, and Andrews' off stump sent cartwheeling by Larwood. Photographs from England's second innings include Herbie Collins congratulating Jack Hobbs on reaching his century, Herbert Sutcliffe on his dismissal, bowled by Mailey for 161, and another of Sutcliffe leading the players off the field through the crowds on his dismissal at the close of the third day's play, Woolley l.b.w. bowled Richardson, a jubilant Oldfield taking the catch to dismiss Geary for 1, Larwood bowled Mailey for 5, and the dismissal of last man Strudwick caught Andrews at slip off Mailey to close the innings at 436. Australia's second innings features Larwood taking a brilliant catch at gully to dismiss Ponsford off Rhodes, Oldfield bowled Stevens for 23, Rhodes bowling in his cap, and Gregory playing a forcing shot. Other images from the match depict the England slip cordon crouching as the bowler runs in, Rhodes making his way through the spectators after England had sealed victory by 289 runs, large crowds cheering the England team's victory in front of the pavilion, Larwood in his bowling action, Lord Harris arriving at the ground, players taking a drinks break, and a number of general scenes of the match in progress etc. Publishers are Central News and The Times. Various sizes from 10"x8" to 6.5"x4.75". G/VG. Sold with a further selection of ten original sepia press photographs (two candid) from the 1926 tour including match action from the Trent Bridge and Old Trafford Tests, tour matches v Minor Counties at Holyport, v Middlesex, Lord's (three photographs), v M.C.C. at Lord's etc. Odd faults, otherwise in good condition £300/400

Going in to the fifth and final Test the series was level at 0-0, the first four matches all having being drawn. With England having scored 280 and Australia 302 in their first innings, England appeared to be in some difficulty batting on a sticky wicket after heavy rain. However, Hobbs and Sutcliffe put on an opening partnership of 172 before Hobbs was out for exactly 100, Sutcliffe going on to make 161, and England ended their second innings at 436 leaving Australia needing 414 to clinch the series. However, four wickets from Wilfred Rhodes and three from Harold Larwood led England to dismiss Australia for 125 and victory by 289 runs to regain The Ashes

555 Australian tour of England 1930. A nice collection of fifty five sepia and mono original press photographs including some candid photographs from the 1930 tour featuring

Fourteen mono candid photographs laid to album pages of scenes at Margate during the fifth and final Ashes Test at The Oval on 16th-21st August 1930. The photographs include scenes of large crowds gathered to view the scoreboard installed over the entrance to St George's Hotel. One photograph shows the scoreboard at the end of the second day's play with Australia's score at 215/2, Kippax on 11no and Bradman 27no, Woodfull out for 54 and Ponsford out for 110. Another photograph of the scoreboard from the fourth day of the same Test shows England's first innings score of 405, and Australia's 695. England are 118/3, Sutcliffe having just been dismissed for 54 with Duleepsinhji on 37no. A further photograph shows the internal workings of the scoreboard. G/VG - cricket. An excellent set of photographs, each measuring approx 4"x2.5". Sold with a commemorative silk scorecard for the match. VG £100/150

With the series tied at 1-1, the final deciding match was won by Australia by an innings and 39 runs on the sixth day of the 'timeless' Test. For England, Sutcliffe scored 161 in their first innings. For Australia, Bradman scored 232 and Ponsford 110, Peebles taking six wickets for England. England were bowled out for 251 in their second innings, Hornibrook taking 7-92 for Australia to clinch victory and the series

563 The Ashes. First Test, Trent Bridge. England v Australia 1930. An impressive selection of sixteen original sepia press photographs from the first Test at Trent Bridge, 13th-17th June 1930. Three images from Day one including Chapman and Woodfull tossing for innings in front of the large crowds and a cameraman in the background, a large view of the ground with Hobbs and Sutcliffe batting in England's first innings, the packed stands and pavilion in the background, and another superb view from the rear of the stand of England batting in the first innings, the view of the ground nicely framed by the pillars and roof of the stand. From Day two, three images of Woodfull and Ponsford walking out to bat at the start of Australia's first innings on the second day's play, England having been bowled out for 270, a large general view of Tate in bowling action, and Richardson dismissed bowled by Tyldesley for 37. Australia ended the day on 140/8 with Kippax 60no. On Day three Hornibrook was dismissed l.b.w. by Larwood for 0, and Tyldesley wrapped up the Australian first innings bowling Wall out, also for 0. Kippax added just added just four runs to Australia's overnight total, leaving him stranded on 64no, Australia all out for 144. Five images include a large general view of Larwood bowling to Hornibrook, three smaller images of Sutcliffe and Hobbs batting positively for England during their second innings opening stand of 125, and one of Hobbs being easily stumped by Oldfield off Grimmett for 74. England were bowled out for 302, setting a Australia an unlikely target of 429 to win the first Test, Australia closing on 60/1 at the close of the third day's play with Ponsford 21no and Bradman (playing in his first Test in England) 31no. With Australia still requiring 369 to win, four photographs depict action from the fourth and final day, including large general views of Bradman facing the bowling of Tate during his innings of 131, and Kippax facing Tyldesley. Two smaller images depict Kippax on the ground after receiving a knock from a ball by Hammond, being attended to by members of the England team, with Dick Tyldesley seen resting on the ground in the background in conversation with an umpire down on one knee, and another of Tate in bowling action. One further large photograph is an excellent view of the massed crowds in the stands, in which all but a handful are wearing an assortment of hats. On the outfield a gentleman is displaying a large placard to the crowd, the message on which is undecipherable. However, the gentleman has been (later) circled in red ink with an arrow pointing to an attached witty handwritten caption, 'Anyone found not wearing a hat will be evicted from the ground'. The photographs, all by the Central Press Service, Nottingham, range in size from 12"x10" to 8.5"x6.5". Small pin holes to the corners of five photographs, otherwise in good/very good condition. A wonderful selection of photographs showing Trent Bridge in 1930, a scene which changed little until around 1990's

Australia were bowled out in their second innings for 335, England winning by 93 runs. Bradman top scored in the match with 131 in Australia's second innings, and Grimmett took five wickets in both innings, ending with match figures of 62 overs, 10 maidens, 10 wickets for 201 runs. For England, Larwood bowled a total of twenty overs, of which nine were maidens, taking two wickets for only 21 runs, with Robins taking seven wickets and Tate six

564 The Ashes. Fifth Test, The Oval. England v Australia 1930. Another impressive selection of fourteen original sepia press photographs from each day of the fifth and final Test at The Oval, 16th-22nd August 1930 (timeless Test). From Day one an image of Sutcliffe playing a pull shot to leg during his century of 161. Australian wicketkeeper, Bert Oldfield, looks on. England ended the day on 316/5. An excellent photograph before the start of the second day's play of the crowds queuing to enter the turnstiles under the supervision of a number of policemen. England's first innings closed at 405 and, in reply, four photographs depict the Australians in batting action including a large general view of the Australian openers Woodfull and Ponsford, Duckworth attempting to run out Ponsford, Woodfull playing a shot to leg off Tate, and Kippax attacking the bowling of Hammond. Day two ended with Australia 215/2, Woodfull having made 54, Ponsford 110. Bradman (27) and Kippax (11) were the not out batsmen. An excellent large photograph of the huge crowds outside the ground sets the scene before the start of play on Day three, with trams and Oval Underground station visible in the background. Australia dominated the day's play, losing only one wicket and ending 403/3 with Bradman 130no. On Day four another excellent scene of crowds queuing at the gates supervised by mounted police, a large general view of Bradman surviving a catch opportunity when the ball dropped between the bowler, Hammond, and Tate (small loss to one edge of the photograph), and a smaller image of Bradman reaching and celebrating his double century. He was eventually dismissed for 232, in so doing breaking Hammond's previous record aggregate runs in a Test series with a total of 974 runs. Australia were eventually bowled out for 695, giving them a first innings lead of 290. England finished 24/1 on at close of play. Day five was washed out by rain, despite which a hopeful queue is depicted outside with raincoats and umbrellas in abundance, watched on by policemen in waterproof capes. At the start of Day six the players

- are shown spreading sawdust on the wicket, and Sutcliffe is depicted hitting the first boundary of the day. England were bowled out for 251, Australia winning by an innings and 39 runs, and so regained the Ashes. The photographs, all by the Central Press Service, London, all measure 12"x10" or 10"x8". Good/ very good condition. Some wonderful images from the fifth, final and deciding Test £250/350
- 568 *With the Test series tied at 1-1, England having won the first and Australia the second Test with the other two drawn, the final deciding 'timeless' Test was played out to a result over six days. - 642 George Beldam. Pioneer of action photography, the first action photographer of sport in Britain, specialising in cricket and golf. A unique selection of eight original sepia action photographs of George Hirst (Yorkshire & England 1891-1929) taken between 1901 and 1904 by Beldam, which were reproduced in the books 'Great Batsman, Their Methods at a Glance' and Great Bowlers and Fielders, Their Methods at a Glance' by Beldam and C.B.

Fry, 1905 & 1906. The photographs appeared in 'Great Batsmen' as Plate II 'Beginning of an off drive played with a full swing', Plate III 'An off-drive just before impact', Plate VI 'The hook stroke, just as the bat meets the ball', Plate XI 'An interesting stroke! Just after the ball was hit', and from 'Great Bowlers and Fielders as Plate III 'Poise on the left foot, before upward arm swing', Plate IV 'The middle of the action of delivery', Plate VI 'A fraction of a second later. A comparison with Plate IV indicated a vigorous quarter turn of the body', and Plate XXII 'A snap catch at mid-off'. The photographs, each measuring approx. 4"x5", are somewhat faded, but otherwise in very good clear condition. The photographs are presented as part of a large montage display comprising the eight original photographs, a single page handwritten letter dated 14th June 1944 signed by Hirst accompanied by the signed photograph of Hirst referred to in the letter, depicted three quarter length wearing Yorkshire cap and blazer and holding a pipe, a rare Vanity Fair postcard of Hirst reproduced from the original by 'Spy', a mono postcard of the 1905 Yorkshire team, a colour postcard of Hirst in batting pose, and two Wills's cigarette cards of Hirst. Mounted, framed and glazed, overall 30.5"x35". Good/very good condition £400/600

It is believed that only two sets of prints of these photographs were made, one set for publication, the other set given to Hirst, this being the set that was formerly in Hirst's personal collection.

George William Beldam was a first-class cricketer who made over one hundred appearances for Middlesex 1900-1907. He became a pioneer of action photography in sport, mainly cricket and golf, using improved camera technology of the early 1900s to capture action with shutter speeds of 1/1000th second

The photograph in good condition, the frame with minor wear. A wonderfully evocative image, both in its size and pictorial 'golden age' content. A scarce photograph, especially I would imagine in this size, not sold previously by the auctioneer

£1500/2500

August Bank Holiday 1904 was 'happily favoured with fine weather' and George Hirst was having his benefit after twelve years of service to the club. A total of 78,681 people came into the ground and receipts of £3,702, 2s & 3d were unprecedented and only exceeded 21 years later when Roy Kilner collected

£4016, 19s & 3d. Lancashire Captain, Archie MacLaren unwisely invited Yorkshire to bat first and they batted for seven hours in total despite having to recover from 143 for five. Ernest Smith, missed before he had scored, was bowled by James Hallows for 98. Hirst made 65, John Tunnicliffe 55 and Lord Hawke 54. Hirst removed MacLaren, Reggie Spooner and Johnny Tyldesley in his first three overs and finished with six for 42 as Lancashire were all out for 173 in response to Yorkshire's 403. So Lancashire had to save the game on the Wednesday which they did as Tyldesley made an undefeated 108. The match was drawn, Lancashire finished on 163-3

Lancashire won the County Championship in the 1904 season, not losing a match. Yorkshire finished in 2nd place having lost only two matches all season. In the 1904 season, George Hirst averaged scored 2501 first class runs at an average of 54.36 with nine centuries and took 132 wickets at an average of 21.09

- 759 'Kilburn Cricket Club [London]. Minute Book 1835-1840'. Brown full leather minute book with title in gilt to front board. This book appears to start from the founding of the club and includes the minutes of the formation of the club, general meetings, committee meetings etc for the six year period. To the back of the book are the full handwritten scores, showing each innings played, of the first fifteen matches played by the club. Matches against St. Georges' Club, Royal Victoria Club (two matches) in 1835, against The Regent Club (two matches), The Montpelier Club (two matches), The Ravenscourt Club in 1836, against Mr Williams' Friends in 1837, 'Married v Single' (two matches), New East Surrey Club (two matches), The St. Georges Club in 1838 and against 'The Medical Students of the University College' (three matches) in 1839. Beautifully compiled pages. The binding of the book is worn and the spine has broken, original blue end papers and colourful marbled page block edge. The book appears to have had the first two pages removed and start mid sentence, there are also a considerable amount of pages removed prior to the fifteenth match being recovered. An early insight to the formation of this club in London £70/100
- 760 Winchester College 1868. 'E.J. Page's (late F. Includes several first class players including Lord G.R.C. Harris (Kent), Longman (Hampshire), Rodger (Kent), C.I. Thornton (Kent), Ottaway (Kent), Higgins Hay (Leicestershire), Turnour (Sussex), Birley (Lancashire & Surrey), Eccles (Hampshire), Willes (Kent) etc. Nicely compiled scorebook, some pages left empty. Good condition £70/100
- 761 Australian tour of England 1921. An original presentation scorebook for the Australian tour of England, recorded and compiled by W.H. 'Bill' Ferguson, the Australian official scorer for the tour. The scorebook half bound in black leather with blue cloth boards with gilt title and decoration to front board 'The Australian Cricket Tour 1921'. The scorebook begins with a copper plate hand written dedication 'To Peter Dawson Esq, in grateful remembrance and in deep appreciation of the many kindnesses extended to the members of the XV Australian Cricket Tour 1921', the following page has an original sepia postcard size photograph of the Australian touring party including the manager, Sydney Smith, seated and standing, in front of a pavilion with crowd behind. Signed around the image in black ink by the players, signatures are Warwick Armstrong (Cpt) (signed to the image), Mailey, Carter, Collins, Oldfield, Macartney, Taylor, Pellew (who has signed twice), Hendry, McDonald, Gregory, Bardsley, Ryder, Mayne and Sydney Smith, lacking the signature of Andrews from the full touring party. The scorebook covers all thirty nine matches played on the tour beginning with the tour match at Leicestershire, L. Robinson's XI (Old Buckenham, Norfolk), Surrey, Yorkshire, The Services, Essex, M.C.C., Oxford University, England (1st Test, Trent Bridge), Cambridge University, Middlesex, Gloucestershire, England (2nd Test, Lord's), Hampshire, Surrey, Northamptonshire, Nottinghamshire, Warwickshire, England (3rd Test, Headingley), Lancashire, West of Scotland, Scotland, Perthshire, Scotland (Edinburgh), Durham County, Yorkshire, England (4th Test, Old Trafford), Essex, Glamorganshire, Lancashire, Warwickshire, Kent, England (5th Test), The Oval), Gloucestershire, Somerset, England XI (Eastbourne), Sussex, South of England (Hastings), C.I. Thornton's XI (Scarborough) and v Cumberland XI (Whitehaven). Each match is beautifully recorded in ink in Ferguson's distinctive hand. Full details for each match include the batsmen's individual number of minutes batted, bowling analyses, extras, time of innings, fall of wickets and result of each match. In addition, there are brief notes on the weather conditions, who won the toss, the names of the umpires and scorers and other observations i.e. 'Prince of Wales lunched with the team (v Surrey May 7-10th)', 'Prince of Wales visited the match' (v Gloucestershire, June 8-10th) etc. The vendor's grandfather was Alfred Jeacocke who played for Surrey and M.C.C. from 1920-1934 and he somehow acquired the scorebook and it has remained with the family until now. Jeacocke during his first class playing career worked in his family's business in Smithfield Market each day before cricket, rising to start work at 3am and continuing until play was due to start in any match in which he played. The vendors parents moved from South London to Manchester when he was only four but managed to maintain contact until he passed away in 1961. Alfred Jeacocke features in the scorebook playing for Surrey against the Australians. The vendor recalls that his Grandfathers house featured a room filled with Wisdens dating back to the 19th century, Surrey handbooks, cricket bats and equipment. The scorebook, a 'Library Cricket Score Book' was published by Walter S. MacKenzie, Athletic Good of Edinburgh, appears to have been rebound at some point in the past. A unique record of this Australian 1921 tour and 100 years since Ferguson compiled the scorebook. Good/very good condition £4000/6000
- Australia won the Test Series 3-0 with two Tests drawn. Warwick Armstrong again, topped the bowling averages with 100 wickets* on tour at 14.44, Ted McDonald took 138 wickets at 16.55. Charlie Macartney had a very successful tour topping the batting averages scoring 2317 runs at 59.41 with a highest score of 345 made in a single day against Nottinghamshire at Trent Bridge in June 1921, the Australians winning the match by an innings and 517 runs, Warren Bardsley also averaged over fifty with 2005 runs at 54.18 Australia played 38 matches, winning 22, drawing 14 and lost, just twice

The recipient of the scorebook, Peter Dawson, we presume is the well-known Glaswegian whisky distiller and entrepreneur who during the Australian tour of England 1909 invited the team on a fourteen day motor tour through Scotland as his guests, the team included Warwick Armstrong. The 1921 tour was Armstrong's swan song in first-class cricket. On the journey back to Australia, he suffered a relapse of the malaria that had plagued him since his earlier visit to Malaya. This kept him from taking part in any of the matches in South Africa, allowing Herbie Collins to captain Australia for the first time. Armstrong resigned from his job with Melbourne Cricket Club and drawing on contacts he had made while on tour took a role as an agent for Dawson's Scotch Whisky. He remained in the liquor trade until his retirement in 1946.

As a footnote and reflection of Dawson's showmanship as well as the export potential of his whiskies, cases of Peter Dawson Special and Old Curio blended whiskies were on board the S.S. Politician when she ran aground off the Hebridean island of Eriskay in 1941. That event and those of the following days inspired Sir Compton Mackenzie's tale, Whisky Galore!.

Quote from Bill Ferguson's autobiography 'Mr Cricket' 1957. Page 56 'I made a study of cricket scoring because I was in the unique position of having to earn a living at it. I use a score book of my own design, a book which contains at least twice as much information as any other in the world and, at the conclusion of each day's play, I copy all the important figures into a more orthodox book which is kept as the official record of the tour. Very jealous of the secrets contained in my own book, I have resisted many attempts by managers, skippers and players to commandeer it'.

Over the years, Knights Auctioneers have now sold four scorebooks compiled by 'Bill' Ferguson, the Australian tours of England in 1912, 1921 and 1930 and the M.C.C. tour of Australia in 1936/37...

A unique collection of all nineteen original pen and ink illustrations on card which featured in the book including the design for the front cover of the book and similar title page which features Crawford in stripped blazer shaking hands with a kangaroo, both Crawford and the kangaroo are wearing spectacles in the original illustration but on the actual printed cover and title page only Crawford is wearing them, as he did all his playing career. The front cover/title page measures 8"x10.5" and the remaining nineteen various sized are smaller, some with shading in blue crayon, many signed by the artist and captioned. There is also a proof sheet with captions altered in pencil. Running in appearance order from the book, the title page being the first, there are illustrations of an Umpire signalling 'Over' (2), Crawford, who was only 20 years old when he went on the tour and under age, asking his fathers permission (3), Crawford asking the umpire for 'a dry handkerchief to lend me' [to wipe his spectacles whilst bowling (4), Crawford batting in full flow 'A La Lyons. Out of the ground for 6' (5) [with preliminary sketch to verso], Crawford and Richard A.Young (Cambridge University, Sussex & England)1905-1925 (nickname Blurr, he went to Repton School with Crawford) walking out in Sydney 'Giving the Sydney Girls a treat' (6), Hutchings, Crawford and Young, in individual beds, Young having nightmares (due to his poor performance in the first Test) 'Bad luck Fielder!, well bowled!' (7), two images of the same Australian crowd at the first Test, one smiling and happy, the other troubled entitled 'Australia doing well, Australian wickets falling fast' (8), the proof sheet depicting an English Lion and a Australian Kangaroo, England doing well by the Wednesday evening and not so well by the Thursday' evening entitled 'An Australian Caricature' (9), Tarrant batting slowly in the tour match with a Victorian XI following the Test, the illustration shows members of the team including Crawford making comments around Tarrant with caption 'Cricket- A matter of endurance' (10), a batsman being given out by the umpire, with Crawford bowling, entitled 'You've had two or three very narrow squeaks before, my boy' (11), an excellent image of Barnes and Fielder walking off triumphantly with bats over their shoulders having scored the 40 runs required to win the second Test by one wicket, entitled 'The two bowlers whose batting won the second Test' (12), head and shoulders image of a very hot Crawford wearing a boater and smoking a cigarette entitled 'Blisters!' due to the high temperatures in the Third Test at Adelaide (13), 'Blurr fishing', image showing Blurr (R.A. Young) fishing with a rod, in the River Tamar [Tasmania] whilst in the water himself (14), Crawford in batting attire pondering the fact that he almost made a pair in the fourth Test at Melbourne (he made 0 & 1) (15), Crawford and Hutchings eating oysters and drinking ginger beer entitled 'Could you eat another dozen Hutch, What! a bad one?' (16), the seventeenth illustration depicts Clem Hill walking into bat with wicket keeper Humphries looking on entitled 'The Invalid. Do I look very seedy Boys. (Clem Hill, 3rd Test Match)'. (17). [Hill had spent two days in bed ill with influenza during the Test, whilst England had been in the field and then made 160 runs...], an excellent illustration showing George Gunn sitting on the top of a cricket bat with other leading run scorers, Hardstaff, Jones,

Hobbs etc positioned below, the caption reads 'The Gunn mounted, top of the Averages' (18) [Gunn topped the tour batting averages with 831 runs at 51.93 with a highest score of 122no], the penultimate illustration features Crawford and Len Braund plus the rest of the team dashing to catch the ship home 'The Race for the boat and home' (19) and the final illustration shows Jones (the England Captain) shaking hands with Monty Noble (the Australian Captain) with caption 'Au Revoir!. The Two Skippers' (20). Minor adhesive marks to the backs of most of the illustrations otherwise in very good condition. Sold with a printed internet download electronic copy of the book showing the printed illustrations. The book is a rarely seen tour item, Knights Auctioneers have sold one copy in twenty seven years of trading. Previously sold by Christie's Auctioneers in June 2003 as lot 121 £1000/1500

The English cricket team in Australia in 1907–08 lost the Test series, and with it the Ashes, 4–1. They were handicapped by Arthur Jones, their captain, having to miss the first three Tests through illness. Frederick Fane led the side during Jones' absence. George Gunn, in Australia for the good of his health, was called into the touring party to bolster the batting and was a great success, scoring two hundreds including one on his Test debut, and scoring 462 runs at an average of 51.33. Nevertheless, England's batting was fragile throughout the series, with only Kenneth Hutchings scoring a hundred in addition to Gunn. Jack Hobbs made his England debut in the second Test, the only one which England won, scoring 83 and 28, and he had the next best average to Gunn. The bowling relied on Jack Crawford, Arthur Fielder and Sydney Barnes, who took 79 wickets between them. England lost the first Test by only two wickets, and ought to have won the third. In the latter match, Clem Hill coming in at number 9 in Australia's second innings because of an attack of influenza made 160. He added 243 for the eighth wicket with Hartigan (116), their partnership turning the match. Jack Crawford had a successful tour all round, the overall tour averages stating he took 72 wickets at 23.90 and made 635 runs at an average of 26.45 with a highest score of 114. He also took 17 catches.

John Neville Crawford (1886-1963) played mainly for Surrey and South Australia. An amateur, he played as an all-rounder. As a right-handed batsman, Crawford had a reputation for scoring quickly and hitting powerful shots. He bowled medium-paced off spin and was noted for his accuracy and his ability to make the ball turn sharply from the pitch. Unusually for a first-class cricketer, Crawford wore spectacles while playing. Crawford established a reputation as an outstanding cricketer while still a schoolboy. He played Test cricket for England before he was 21 years old, and successfully toured South Africa with the M.C.C. in 1905/06 and Australia with the MCC in 1907–08. He played only 12 matches for England, although critics believed he had a great future in the sport and was a potential future England captain. In two successive English seasons, he completed the double of 1,000 runs and 100 wickets in first-class games.

A dispute over the composition of a Surrey side chosen to play a high-profile game against Australia in 1909, after several professional players were omitted for disciplinary reasons, led to an increasingly bitter disagreement between Crawford and the Surrey authorities. Crawford was told he had no future with the club, and moved to Australia. There, he worked as a teacher and continued his cricket career with South Australia. This arrangement had a controversial end, when he clashed with the South Australian Cricket Association over money and moved to New Zealand to play for Otago. That relationship also ended badly, and he left Otago before being conscripted into the New Zealand armed forces near the end of the First World War. When he was demobilised, he returned to England and made his peace with Surrey. He played a handful of games between 1919 and 1921 but faded out of first-class cricket to pursue a career in industry. In all first-class cricket, Crawford scored 9,488 runs at an average of 32.60 and took 815 wickets at an average of 20.66.
