PHOTOGRAPHS AND POSTCARDS FROM THE JOE GOLDMAN COLLECTION

Joseph Wolfe Goldman. The following collection of signed photographs were collected and collated by J.W. Goldman, best known for compiling one of the finest private collection of cricket books in the world. His collection also comprised over 4,000 signatures (many of which were signed to photographs, a good selection of which are offered here), also prints, cigarette cards, scorecards, ceramics, bronzes etc. In 1965 he decided to sell his collection. Unable to find a private buyer, he put the collection up for sale by auction in 1966, a time when specialist cricket sales were rare. Goldman also published two books, the first a bibliography of cricket published in 1937, predated Padwick by some forty years. A keen cricket player and enthusiast, he was apparently a spectator at W.G. Grace's final first-class match. His own playing career was curtailed when he was wounded in action at Passchendaele in World War I. Goldman died in 1978 aged 85 in a Sunbury on Thames nursing home near his home in Egham.

CRICKET ITEMS FROM THE COLLECTION OF IAN BOTHAM (Worcestershire, Durham & England 1974-1993).

352 Ian Botham. Hudson's Hollywood XI 'iconic' cricket blazer worn by Botham during his brief dalliance with Tim Hudson as his agent/publicist in 1985. The very colourful vertically striped blazer, in the most garish colours taken from Rastafarian culture, of red, green, gold and black with 'Hudson's Hollywood XI' gilt buttons, Botham was often seen wearing it wearing a wild west style cowboy hat. Botham, plus his Hollywood XI team mates including Viv Richards, wore these blazers at cricket matches held by Hudson at Birtles Hall cricket ground in Cheshire and at many photo shoots and publicity filming arranged by Hudson who was promoting his clothing line. There was talk of making Botham a Hollywood star and indeed he did visit Hollywood with Hudson but eventually they split it and Hudson returned to America. The blazer was sold, I believe by a London Auction house in the 1990's, and then eventually bought by the present vendor who has had the sleeves shortened slightly to enable him to wear it, looking at the sleeves it appears that this could be reversed with enough striped cloth available in the sleeve, otherwise in good condition £400/600

353 Ian Terence Botham. Somerset navy blue blazer worn by Ian Botham during his playing career with the club. The blazer by 'Van Heusen of Saville Row' with embroidered white Somerset dragon with red tongue emblem applied to blazer breast pocket. Sold with a note of provenance signed by Botham. Very good condition. £250/350

Following two Sunday League appearances in 1973, Ian Botham made his first-class debut for Somerset in 1974 against Lancashire at Taunton, as did Viv Richards, and made great progress in the following years. In 1976 he scored his maiden first class century and was selected for his first England One Day International against the West Indies and in 1977 made his England Test debut in the Ashes series in the 3rd Test at Trent Bridge, his achievements for club and country resulted in him being selected as one of the 'Wisden Cricketers of the Year' for 1977. Following further success with Somerset, winning four one day trophies, he was appointed Club Captain for the 1984 and 1985 seasons. Succeeded by Peter Roebuck in 1986, unrest in the dressing room led to the sacking of their two West Indian players, Viv Richards and Joel Garner, and Botham himself resigned at the end of that season

353a Ian Terence Botham. Somerset, Worcestershire, Durham, Queensland & England 1974-1993. M.C.C./ England tour blazer issued to and worn by Ian Botham for the 1982/83 tour to Australia and New Zealand. The navy blue blazer by Burton of Leeds with embroidered M.C.C. touring emblem of St George & Dragon and scroll beneath with tour details '1982 Australia New Zealand 1983' to breast pocket. 'I Botham' embroidered to the inside maker's label. Very good condition £500/800

After a successful English summer in which Botham scored 1241 runs including his highest score of 208 (against India) and took 66 wickets, the tour to Australia was disappointing. Hoping to defend the Ashes famously retained in 1981, England lost the series 2-1 despite a nail-biting three run victory at Melbourne in the fourth Test. In the nine first-class matches in which Botham played on tour he managed a top score of 65 (average 24.11) and took just 29 wickets (average 35.62)

- 365 W.G. Grace. An unusual and rarely seen life size bronze hand of Grace holding a cricket ball. The stump of the arm impressed with Grace's signature. The hand and arm measure approximately 11" long. The hand and ball, which was apparently produced to commemorate W.G. Grace's 41st Birthday, July 18th 1889, is beautifully and very skilfully sculptured showing the finger and thumb nails, the wrinkles around the finger joints and palm, the knuckles and veins in the back of the hand with a lovely patina to the bronze. Knights have previously sold a pair of early similar photographs, one showing the large bust of Grace made in 1888 by artist William Henry Tyler with annotation and the other showing the life size hand of Grace holding a cricket ball. The photograph of the hand of Grace is annotated in ink to lower border 'Hand of Dr. W.G. Grace cast in plaster on his 41st birthday (Price in bronze). The ink annotation to both photographs is in the same hand. Both items were made within a year of each other and although purely conjecture, it is entirely possible that Tyler made the life size hand as well as the bust? Having contacted many well known long standing collectors, museums and institutions with enquiries regarding the hand, this auctioneer has drawn a blank, no-one I have spoken to appears to have heard of its existence, seen it or remember it ever being sold at auction before. It could well be, as with the large bust of Grace, that only a small number were ever made in bronze. The current vendor bought the hand over fifty years ago in 1970 for £36. An intriguing and exciting discovery which appears 'fresh' to the market after all these many years £8000/12000

- 439 A late one-piece cricket bat. An mid 19th Century one-piece cricket bat made by John Thompson of Windsor and dated 1848. The bat is unspliced, narrow and straight shouldered with an unusually slightly convex face and the back of the blade is humped. The bat was made for a right handed batsman. Mellor, August 1933' in ink. The bat by direct descent for G. Mellor. An early and rare

bat. Good condition. Sold with the late vendors research notes giving further information on the bat

£300/500

This bat was made about ten years after spliced bats were first produced and therefore was unlikely to have been made for a notable cricketer. - Richard Barlow played in 351 first class matches scoring over 11,000 runs at an average of 20.61 with a highest score of 117 v M.C.C. in July 1885. He took 950 wickets at 14.52 with a best of 9-39 v Sussex in June 1886. He played seven times for England against Australia in England: in the match which gave rise to the Ashes at the Oval in 1882; and at Lord's, the Oval, and Old Trafford in 1884 and 1886. Barlow paid three visits to Australia, going* out with Alfred Shaw and Arthur Shrewsbury in 1881/1882, with the Hon. Ivo Bligh in 1882/3, and again with Shaw and Shrewsbury in 1886/1887. He played in every match of all three tours. His batting epitomised the term 'stonewalling'. It was said that for every 100 runs scored by his opening batting partner, Hornby, Barlow would score ten. He also played football as a goalkeeper for Lancashire and ultimately became a Test match umpire.

The bat was used by Barlow in the 22nd/23rd/24th/ 25th and 26th Test matches against Australia and faced the bowling of Spofforth, Giffen, Garrett, Trumble, Turner and Ferris. It was also used to Barlow's 113 for the Players against Australia at Nottingham and patient batsman. A classical cover driver, he played in eleven matches for England and featured in twenty six century partnerships with Arthur Shrewsbury. One of the finest batsmen of the early Golden Age, Gunn also played two football internationals for England and in 1885 founded the famous bat making firm of Gunn & Moore.

Electing to bat first, the Players posted an impressive 526 with William Gunn achieving his record score to date of 228, then the highest against Australian bowling in England. Replying, the Australians could only reach 156, John Lyson top scorer with 50, George Lohmann taking 5/61. Forced to follow on, the Players bowled out the Australians again, this time for only 107, Briggs (5/51) and Lohmann (4/53) doing the damage, the Players winning by the substantial margin of an innings and 263 runs. Gunn's innings was probably the most notable century Gunn ever made, 'Restrained, but free from the least mistake, this innings was played with Turner and Ferris in the attack, and nothing as essentially better has ever been done against an Australian side'. Arthur Shrewsbury was an English cricketer and rugby football administrator. He was widely rated as competing with W. G. Grace for the accolade of best batsman of the 1880s; Grace himself, when asked whom he would most like in his side, replied simply, 'Give me Arthur'. Cricketers, Arthur Shrewsbury and Alfred Shaw' in 1907 and 'Letters of Acknowledgement of The Memento of Arthur Shrewsbury and Alfred Shaw. With a few notes and illustration' 1910

- The years of 1924 and 1925 were probably Sutcliffe's most productive years, both for Yorkshire and for England. Sutcliffe's had an exceptional tour of Australia with M.C.C. in 1924/25. In the five Tests, he scored 734 runs at an average of 81.55 with four centuries and a highest score of 176. In the home season of 1925, he scored 2308 runs for Yorkshire at an average of 53.67 with seven centuries. In 1926, the first four Tests of the 1926 Ashes series were all curtailed by poor weather. The final Test at The Oval was timeless to ensure a finish. It has become one of the most famous matches in cricket history, not because England regained The Ashes but for the manner in which it was achieved as Hobbs and Sutcliffe produced their most famous partnership in treacherous batting conditions. Hobbs and Sutcliffe put up a great defence of their wickets and Hobbs made a hundred and Sutcliffe 161. England won the game comfortably, by 289 runs, and regained The Ashes.*
- Pelham Warner wrote: 'Hobbs and Sutcliffe won it for us by their incomparable batting. They did not fail us at a time of most desperate crisis. Never has English cricket known a more dauntless pair'. In the County Championship Sutcliffe was second in the batting averages behind Hobbs, scoring 2,528 runs at 66.52 with 8 centuries and a highest score of exactly 200 against Leicestershire.*

- 1288 'Cricket Match at Darnall, for 200 Sovereigns' 1826. Sheffield and Leicester v Nottingham. Very early and rare original double sided score sheet for the match played at the Darnall New Ground, Sheffield, 24th- 26th July 1826. Both sides with printed title, attractive engraving of a match in progress and decorative borders, with the description 'On Monday, July 24, 1826, a Cricket Match will be Played on the New Ground at Darnell, between 6 of Sheffield, with 5 of Leicester given, against 11 of Nottingham for 200 Sovereigns'. One side shows the scores at the close of play on the first day, Nottingham having batted first and being bowled out for 101. Top scorers were G. Jarvis and P. Bramley who both made 20. Rawlins took 5 wickets for 45 runs and Marsden 4 for 51. In reply, Sheffield and Leicester stood at 16/1. The other side of the sheet shows the complete scores at the conclusion of the match. Sheffield and Leicester having reached an impressive 379 all out, including an astonishing innings of 227 by Tom Marsden who batted for over eight hours, to record the third highest first-class score at the time. This was achieved against Nottingham bowlers of the calibre of Thomas Barker and William Clarke and it is recorded that Marsden struck one ball over a 45ft. stone wall, the ball landing some 130 yards from the wicket. Nottingham were then bowled out again cheaply for 75, Marsden, Rawlins and Shelton sharing the wickets, giving Sheffield and Leicester victory by the significant margin of an innings and 203 runs. It is estimated that over 30,000 attended the match over the three days. 7.75"x9". Printed by Orton of Sheffield, the sheet has become split at the horizontal and vertical folds with nicks to edges, and has been subsequently expertly laid down to conservation paper. An exceptionally good example of a very early score sheet in otherwise good condition. £400/600
- 1289 'State of the Match of Cricket played at West Malling, Kent... between Kent & England' 1841. Early original single sided scorecard for the match

In reply, Kent reached 150 (Alfred Mynn 48). In their second innings England were bowled out for 110, setting Kent 80 runs to win, which they narrowly achieved with just two wickets to spare. Kent's William Hillyer took thirteen wickets in the match. Other notable players who took part include William Lillywhite, Tom Sewell, Thomas Box, William Ward, Roger Kynaston for England, and Fuller Pilch, Walter Mynn, William Dorrington, Charles Whittaker and William Martingell for Kent. Printed to stiff card by 'Windsor' at the the Cricket Ground, Malling. The card measures 7"x7.25" with slight uneven trimming. Good condition.

- 1290 'Kent v. Sussex. Match of Cricket at Tunbridge Wells' 1848. Early and original small double sided scorecard for the match played at the Higher Common Ground, Tunbridge Wells, 27th & 28th July 1848. The card with printed scores at the close of the first day's play (Kent 82, Sussex 64/4) lists the Kent innings to one side and Sussex to the verso. In a tight match, scheduled for three days but completed in two, Kent batted first and were dismissed for 82. Only three batsmen reached double figures, William Hillyer taking nearly three hours to score 18, Fuller Pilch (18) and Alfred Mynn (14). Replying, Sussex reached 103, William Napper scoring 33. In the second innings Kent made 80, Nicholas Felix ('Wanostrocht') top scorer with 20. Set only 60 to win, Sussex scraped home by just one wicket, with only Charles Hammond (15) and John Wisden (16) reaching double figures. Wisden took eleven wickets in the match for Sussex and Hillyer ten for Kent. Originally from the family collection of Charles Hammond who played for Sussex in the match, the card measures 3"x4.5". Printer unknown. Very good condition.

- 1291 'Marylebone and Sussex' 1849. Original single sided score sheet for the 'Close of the first two innings, Second Day, Tuesday Aug. 14, 1849' for the match played at C.H. Gausden's (Royal Brunswick) Ground, Hove, 13th- 14th August 1849. The scores depict M.C.C. having been dismissed cheaply for 46 (William Hillyer 15, Henry Royston 11) with John Wisden and James Dean sharing the wickets five apiece. Sussex then made 143, George Picknell top scoring with 59, Thomas Box 39. M.C.C. went on to score 101 in the second innings (Roger Kynaston 35) with Wisden taking eight wickets (thirteen in the match), and Sussex knocked off the required five runs to win comfortably by ten wickets. Reportedly M.C.C. struggled to attract their better 'gentlemen' players to travel for away 'country' matches, and accordingly fielded a weakened side. Originally from the family collection of Charles Hammond who played for Sussex in the match, the score sheet measures 4"x6.5". Published by 'G. Mant at his Fruit & Confectionery Stalls', printed on the ground by Phillips & Co., Brighton. Staining and creasing, otherwise in good condition.

- 1292 Cambridge University v United England Eleven 1855. Original double sided scorecard for the match played at Lord's on 'Monday (wet) & Tuesday, June 18th & 19th 1855'. The sixteen of Cambridge pulled off an unexpected victory by thirteen runs. Batting first they made only 66, Hammond scoring 16 and Walker 12. In reply United England, featuring notable names such as Nicholson, Dean, Haygarth, Grundy, James Lillywhite, Lockyer, Wisden etc. scored 106 (Tom Lockyer 28). In the second innings Cambridge fared little better reaching 88 (E.T. Drake 30) setting United England only 49 to win. However, not one of the United England batsmen were able to reach double figures and they were skittled out for a remarkable 35. United England's Thomas Nixon took thirteen wickets in the match. Printed by 'Lillywhite's Printing Tent by authority and under the patronage of of the Marylebone and other clubs' with printed fixtures and advertising to lower portion of the front and to the verso. 4.5"x6". Payne 42) and Liverpool ended 79 for seven and the match was drawn. Three members of the I Zingari team, J. Rowley, B. Grindford and C.E. Hornby (uncle of Albert Hornby) are listed with an asterisk against their name. Apparently, I Zingari arrived for the game three men short and these players took their place. Printed on the ground by H. Jackson of James Street. 3.5"x5". Horizontal fold, ink annotations to verso, otherwise in good/ very good condition.

cricketarchive.com lists the match as having been played at the Earl of Sefton's ground in Croxteth.
- 1294 George Parr's team to North America 1859. First England cricket tour overseas. '11 of England v 22 of the United States'. Two very rare scorecards (thought to be the only surviving original scorecards from the pioneering first overseas tour), printed by Fred. Lillywhite from the third match of the tour. Having played their first two matches in Canada, this, the first in the United States, was played against twenty two of the United States at St. George's Club Ground, Hoboken, New Jersey, 3rd- 5th October 1859. The two scorecards are both titled 'Correct Score from F. Lillywhite's Printing Tent of Lord's & Kennington Oval, London'. One, dated 'Monday, October 3rd, 1859' lists the teams for the start of play, subsequently filled in with scores in pencil that appear to be complete up to the close of the second day's play. The other scorecard, dated 'Monday, Tuesday & Wednesday, October 3rd, 4th, and 5th, 1859', lists the complete printed scores at the close of the match. Making up this very strong team for the match were Parr (Captain), Carpenter, Hayward, Wisden, Caffyn, Lockyer, Diver, Stephenson, Caesar, Grundy and Jackson. The other member of the touring party, John Lillywhite, would have been twelfth man. The Twenty Two of the United States batted first and were bowled out by the strong English team for only 38, John Jackson and George Parr bowling unchanged, Jackson taking ten wickets for only ten runs, Parr taking nine wickets for 26 runs. Parr's XI then replied with 156, Tom Hayward top scoring with 33, Robert Carpenter with 26, aided by the contribution of 25 extras, of which twelve were wides. The Americans' W. Hallis took six wickets for 45 runs. In the second innings, the Americans fared little better being dismissed for 54 with John Wisden and William Caffyn this time bowling throughout, Caffyn ending with figures of sixteen wickets for 24 runs, Wisden four for 26. Remarkably, in the two innings not one of the twenty two American batsmen was able to reach double figures, J.C. Lang being their top scorer with seven runs in their second innings. Parr's XI won the match by an innings and 64 runs.

Previously sold by Christie's as lot 142 in June 2001, the scorecards, each measuring approx. 3.75"x4.75", are laid down side by side to a scrapbook page also comprising newspaper cuttings of a transcript of a court case, and a small original printed card of 'Company F, Eighth Regiment Squad Drills 1859 & 1860'. To the verso an original, crude watercolour sketch of an agricultural scene is laid down. Some age toning to one of the two scorecards, otherwise in very good condition considering the age of these remarkable artefacts from the dawn of international cricket.

Frederick Lillywhite, a member of the the famous Sussex cricketing family, made his name as a sports outfitter, publisher and cricketing entrepreneur. By the time he was 20 he had produced the first edition of The Guide To Cricketers which ran through to his death in 1866, aged only 37, a book which was loosely the forerunner of the more famous Wisden Cricketers' Almanack. In 1859 he accompanied George Parr's professional side on the ground-breaking tour to North America, fulfilling the role of scorer. He also took a mobile printing press and scoring wagon, and subsequently published the definitive account of the trip in 1860, 'The English Cricketers' Trip to Canada and the United States in 1859', followed in 1863 by his 'Scores and Biographies', the first major work on the game in almost a century, as well as scorecards of matches.

The tour was organised by Lillywhite, W.P. Pickering (a former player who had emigrated to Canada in 1852), and R. Waller of the Hoboken Club. The team comprised six members of the All-England Eleven and six from the United All-England Eleven and so represented the cream of English cricket of the period. The tour was a great success, despite being hampered by cold weather and horrendous sea voyages in the North Atlantic gales, both outward and homeward. As Robin Marler wrote, 'Fred Lillywhite's qualities show in his desire to make a proper job of the tour, to demonstrate to the Canadians and Americans the best possible presentation of English cricket, from the proper advertising of the matches right down to the inclusion on the scorecard of the latest wicket to fall. Hence his pre-occupation with the transport of his precious printing press, and his irritation with those who cursed his paraphernalia'.

The scorecard lists the players for both teams (twelve per side) at the start of play with faint incomplete handwritten scores in pencil. The England XII elected to bat first and were bowled out for 124, Francis Ford top scorer with 33, George Dennett 28. Printer unknown. 4.75"x7.25". Small tear to right edge, some creasing and foxing, otherwise in good condition. £100/150

It appears W.G. Grace was not able to attend the unveiling of the memorial, which was performed by E.M. Sprot, captain of Hampshire C.C.C. The cricket ground was the home venue for first-class matches organised by the Hambledon Club from 1753 to 1781. Immediately next to the ground is the Bat & Ball Inn, known as the 'cradle of cricket', whose landlord for ten years from 1762 to 1772 was Hambledon captain Richard Nyren. Broadhalfpenny Down continued in regular use by Hambledon/Hampshire teams until 1781. At the end of that season, the Hambledon Club moved to Windmill Down closer to the village. The original ground fell into disuse through most of the nineteenth century and was converted to agriculture. Attempts were made to restore the ground with the result that this 1908 'Hambledon v England XI' fixture was played as a commemorative match and featured numerous famous players including Hampshire cricketer Edward Whalley-Tooker, a descendant of a member of the original Hambledon Club. Following the match in 1908 the ground was reclaimed for farming. Whalley-Tooker set about the task of securing its permanent use for cricket and in

- 1925 it was restored to host cricket matches.
